CYBERSOURCE: Fat Face surfs e commerce wave by choosing CyberSource to Power its online transactions; CyberSource to provide clothing retailer with secure, scalable payment services

M2 PRESSWIRE

February 21, 2001

London -- Surfers, skiers and outdoor-lifestylers buying clothes and gear online at Fat Face (www.fatface.co.uk) will now benefit from secure, scalable payment services provided by CyberSource Corporation (Nasdaq: CYBS), a leading provider of mission-critical eCommerce transaction services.

"Security and ease of payment are two essential components of an eCommerce site," says Bob Barton of Fat Face. "CyberSource's experience with major UK and US sites like HMV, Virgin Wines and NIKE.com meant that CyberSource was an obvious choice for us."

Bob continued, "We have just worked with Computer Associates, using their Jasmine ii and Neugents Technology, Ato revamp our site. This site, built around CA Jasmine ii and Neugents technology, aims to embrace the active outdoor lifestyle and is a real focus for driving sales in the new year."

In order to manage increased volumes of orders online, Fat Face has implemented CyberSource's Payment Services, a key component of the CyberSource eCommerce Transaction SuiteSM to provide its customers with fast, convenient and secure payment services.

Neil Cook, Managing Director of the CyberSource UK office, commented, "More and more retailers are choosing to outsource their back-end e-commerce services to CyberSource. They just don't want the hassle and worry, and it means that they can concentrate on generating sales whilst we take care of the behind the scenes processes."

About Fat Face

Fat Face was born in the French Alps in the late eighties, where Tim Slade and Julian Leaver were looking at ways to support their skiing addiction.

They soon discovered that printing and selling tops to skiers was far better than working behind the bar! The brand has come a long way since selling sweatshirts from bin liners and now has over 40 stores in the UK and France, a thriving mail order business and a booming e-business solution.

Fat Face is all about living life to the full, with kit that will last through outdoor activities but still look cool enough to be seen in down the pub. The future plans are to increase the UK portfolio and extend the presence overseas within the next three years, whilst keeping ahead of new website developments. The Fat Face offer will also continue its growth to encompass an even bigger range of products. The industry recognised the brand's growth and innovation, presenting Fat Face with the 'Young Entrepreneur of the Year Southern Region' award in June this year.

ATLAS VENTURE: New Internet venture provides help for high street pharmacies -- Atlas Venture invests in Pharmalife.co.uk
M2 PRESSWIRE
February 28, 2000

FEB 28, 2000, M2 Communications - The UK's 12,000 high street pharmacies are potentially set to benefit as a result of Atlas Venture's GBP1.5 million first round investment in Pharmalife, the business to business ecommerce venture for the pharmacy community.

Pharmalife believes its two sites www.tradepharm.co.uk and www.pharmalife.co.uk will dramatically improve the profitability and business performance of UK and continental European pharmacies and their suppliers.

The founder of Pharmalife, Musa Dhalla (32) - a trained pharmacist and previously Corporate Development General Manager at Alliance Unichem - commented: "By linking pharmacies, wholesalers and manufacturers together in a single online market-place - many of the costly inefficiencies that exist can be removed. As a result new opportunities can be created which mean that the bottom-line for pharmacists, manufacturers and wholesalers can be significantly increased. We are delighted that Atlas Venture has invested in our business."

Through the business's online marketplace - www.tradepharm.co.uk - manufacturers will be able to capture and transact orders. Due to go live first half 2000, pharmacies will be able to purchase up to 3000 generic and parallel imported products, these products representing 45% of the items dispensed by a typical pharmacy. The company believes that for an average pharmacy with a GBP500,000 turnover, tradepharm.co.uk will increase a pharmacy's profitability by some 25%. The site will also allow pharmacies to trade unsold capacity amongst themselves and provide a range of business services to allow a pharmacy to operate more efficiently.

As a complementary service, the company will also be launching www.pharmalife.co.uk - a site which will provide a full range of services for managing a pharmacist's professional life. This site will be focused on providing library resources, training materials, career management advice, and tailored news and information.

Rob Zegelaar of Atlas Venture, who joins Pharmalife's board as a result of Atlas's investment, commented: "We are excited by the benefits Pharmalife's two sites can bring to the UK and continental European pharmacy sector. The increased efficiencies that they will deliver to all in the traditional supply chain - combined with the fact that both sites are free to subscribe to - mean that we can see a rapid take up of the service. We look forward to internationalising the business in internet time."

Pharmalife is expected to make key partner and geographic announcements in the near future.

Revenue Model

Both www.tradepharm.co.uk and www.pharmalife.co.uk will be free to subscribe to, the sites generating their revenue from commissions on transactions for products or services made through the sites and advertising.
